The Fulbright Program

Established by legislation introduced in 1946 by Senator J. William Fulbright, the Fulbright Program has the broad purpose of increasing "mutual understanding between the people of the United States and the people of other countries." Congressionally funded, the Program includes awards for teachers, graduate students, and post-graduate scholars, primarily for advanced research and university teaching.

Awards are made each year to students, scholars, and professionals coming to the United States from countries all over the world, as well as to Americans going overseas. The program is supervised by the presidentially appointed Board of Foreign Scholarships, which establishes general policies and selects all participating individuals and institutions.

The Fulbright Program is funded and administered by the United States Information Agency (USIA). The Council for International Exchange of Scholars (CIES), affiliated with the American Council on Education, is responsible for administering the Scholar Program, which awards grants for post-doctoral research and university lecturing.

The Directory

This directory lists 805 American scholars who have recently received Fulbright Awards for university lecturing and advanced research abroad. They will hold various appointments in approximately 100 countries during the 1984-1985 academic year. The dates which appear at the end of most entries indicate the time during which each scholar will be overseas; however, these dates may not be exact, since in many cases specific information was not available in time for printing. Names of scholars whose awards were confirmed after September 1984 will appear in next year's directory.

The descriptive information on each scholar is arranged according to academic discipline. Scholars are also listed by host country, by home state, and in alphabetical order.

Names of scholars awarded grants through the Indo-American Fellowship Program, the NATO Fellowship Program, and the research program sponsored by the Agreement of Friendship, Cooperation, and Defense between the United States and Spain are also included in this directory, as are participants in two German/Fulbright Seminar Programs.

Awards for Americans

Each year approximately 700 U.S. senior scholars are awarded Fulbright grants to lecture or carry out research abroad. Most Fulbright Grants are for the academic year of the host institution or country. Grants for shorter periods are also awarded in a number of countries. Except for specified programs, however, summer grants and grants for attendance at international conferences are not available.

Approximately sixty percent of the awards are for university lecturing, usually in a field of importance to the host institution. Many lectureships allow opportunity for research, and research scholars may undertake occasional lecturing. Terms of awards vary from country to country but generally include round trip travel, basic health insurance, maintenance allowances, and certain supplemental allowances.

Most awards require a doctorate and appropriate professional experience. While English is acceptable for many assignments, fluency in the language of the host country is sometimes required. All applicants must be U.S. citizens.

The National Competition

American scholars and other professionals interested in university lecturing and advanced research abroad should request information and application forms from CIES. An announcement of Fulbright Scholar Awards to begin 12-18 months later is published each spring. The general competition for Australia, New Zealand, India, and Latin America closes June 15. For countries in Africa, Asia (except India), Europe, and the Middle East, the competition closes September 15.

Other CIES Publications

The Council also publishes a directory of Fulbright Scholars from abroad who are visiting the United States. Usually issued in two volumes each year, it includes notations of those scholars who have expressed particular interest in occasional lecturing, with their topics of specialization. Volume I of the 1984-85 Directory of Visiting Fulbright Scholars and Occasional Lecturers was issued in the fall of 1984, and Volume II will be issued in the spring of 1985. Copies of all directories are available upon request.
